OPINION PER CURIAM: 1 Robert DeWitt Hamilton was employed as a truck driver by Cooper Power (formerly known as Cooper Power Systems) in Bristol, Virginia. Hamilton suffered an injury on July 27, 1990, which resulted in a work-related injury to his left leg. On February 21, 1991, a hearing was held before an administrative law judge (ALJ) to determine whether his injury and disability were compensable under the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, 33 U.S.C. Sec. 901 et seq. (LHWCA). The ALJ denied Hamilton's claim, finding that Hamilton had failed to prove he was engaged in maritime employment. The Benefits Review Board (BRB) affirmed, holding that Hamilton failed to prove that his injury was causally related to his employment.
